Teenagers invited to learn wilderness survival skills

GENEVA, IL — Do you have what it takes to “tough it” in the wilderness? Join us for our “Survival Skills” nature program on Saturday, Sept. 2, from 11 a.m. to noon, to find out!

During this nature program, just for teens, we’ll talk about how we can potentially utilize the plants, fungi and animals around us for survival. Forest Preserve District naturalists will lead discussions during this interactive, hands-on program and hike.

This program takes place at LeRoy Oakes Forest Preserve, located at 37W700 Dean St., St. Charles.

Registration is free, but advance registration is required. Call 630-444-3190 or e-mail programs@kaneforest.com to register.
